Disseminating Research Findings: Media Resources

DESCRIPTION

Often a neglected afterthought in busy research schedules, the dissemination of key findings upon project completion is a crucial step in collaborative research. In an effort to increase the ease and efficiency of undertaking such measures, this document provides contact information for local media sources including listservs, newsletters, daily newspapers, weekly newspapers, magazines, radio, and television stations. Through such distribution channels, CIRA's Community Research Core hopes to distribute salient findings to affected communities, participant agencies, health departments, researchers, policy makers, and HIV advocacy groups.
